

Remodelista

Appliances: Smeg Showroom in NYC

March 31st, 2008

From Julie:

One of our favorite companies, Italian appliance maker Smeg, has opened its first US showroom in New York at the A & D Building. Although it's now owned by Electrolux, Smeg (an acronym for Smalterie Metallurgiche Emiliane Guastalla) continues to produce stylish and innovative designs, such as its new line of polished stainless steel appliances designed by famed Italian architect Renzo Piano.

Below: Piano Design Stainless Steel Electric Multifunction Oven; $2,049 at Home Click. Comes with built-in analogue clock and ergonomic control knobs.

Below: Piano Design Steel Gas Cooktop; $1,399 for the five-burner model at Home Click.

Below: The company's 50's Style Refrigerators are also on display, in a variety of colors and finishes; $1,999 at Home Click.

